An Sheriff Committed for Trial.

At the Magistracy this afternoon, Yeung Cheung, Un. dico. Yusung Kwan, formerly employed as a shroff in the Savings Bank Department of the Hongkong and N. China Bank, was again brought up on the charge of having in or about the month of May, wilfully and with intent to defraud, made certain false entries in a pass-book, the property of the bank, he then being employed as a clerk, officer or servant of the bank. His Worship said he had made up his mind to commit the defendant for trial. Defendant reserved his defence. He was committed for trial, the bail being fixed as before. Mr. J. Hastings, who appeared for the defence, asked for a reduction of the bail. When his Worship fixed the bail he did not know the circumstances of the case. There was no good ground for holding the defendant to the enormous bail of $60,000. The magistrate was induced to fix that sum by the prima facie statement of the solicitor for the prosecution. His Worship was now in possession of the true circumstances of the case, and if he had known those facts he would not have fixed such a heavy bail. He asked for a reduction of the bail. His Worship said if he reduced the bail he would give his opinion on the matter as to the homeliness of the offence. The bail would remain as before. Mr. H. J. Geddes then preferred the charge of stealing the pass-book against the defendant. Mr. J. Hastings asked that the evidence in the former case be read. His Worship would gather from what he said in the former case that the defendant admitted that he took from the Hongkong and Shanghaik Bank a book, not a pass-book, because it was merely a blank book with no entries in it. It was not a pass-book, unless it became a pass-book. Such a book as that did not become a pass-book until it became a book account as between the bank and any of its customers. Until that time it was merely a piece of stationery. For what it was worth the defendant admitted taking that piece of stationery, valued at about 10 cents. He submitted that this was not such a very grievous offence. It might not be altogether a proper thing to do. A few employees of firms in this Colony frequently make use of their employer's writing paper to write their private letters upon, & possibly of account paper to make entries of their private accounts that was possibly not the right thing to do, but he did not think anybody would object to this being done for doing what was all the defendant had done. He had taken a blank book belonging to the bank and used it for making his private memorandum, and it was for his Worship to say what punishment, if any, should be inflicted. He added that consideration taken of the fact that defendant had been held to heavy bail in the charge. Geddes having addressed the Court, Womble adjourned the cause until further notice, could be no doubt what the defense that the book was merely a collection of ruled sheets of paper. It was shown to both of the banks that the book was not a pass-book, but was a book which the Bank did business with.

In this case the defendant had no sufficient cause for his conduct, and he was held to heavy bail.

WEIHAIWEI.

SHANGHAI, June 13.

The Shanghai team returned yesterday afternoon per s.s. Tungshing.Though they brought no laurels back with them, they are one and all enthusiastic over the "racing good time" they have had, which, of course, we all expected.Nothing could have exceeded the kindness and hospitality of their hosts. The team was divided amongst the various members. Mr. Tyack, the Shanghai captain, being installed in the Centurion (ship) from which, admiral of all he surveyed, he issued orders by signal round the fleet—to the Shanghai Eleven.The team dined with the Admiral and the ward-room officers of the Centurion on various evenings, one, however, being devoted to a night ashore at the Weihaiwei Cliff—the historical home of Admiral Ying.
Possibly the overthrow of the local team was begun, and continued in these two pleasant orts, only to be ended on the tented plain the following day.The Cricket Ground has been irreverently described as the C.O.'s backyard—otherwise the parade-ground. The cricket portion of it could not be covered by the Clifford's mainail, but a good portion of it could. It was nothing special in the bowing. It had created not a little amusement by hitting three sixes out of the universe altogether.Batting was pleasant enough, but fielding was nothing more nor less than being under fire, and at times it was doubtful whether one would have to stop one of the balls dropped there was the risk of its modern shrapnel of Admiral Seymour, for it had dropped there and pebbled into the fieldman's face in the most approved manner of modern artillery.Why the Shanghai team should have made themselves into a procession during the second innings, the only man who made a stand says he cannot comprehend. There was nothing special in the bowing. It must have been late hours and too good fellowship.For the Navy, Liouts Jeff and Nugent played remarkably well, putting on some 200 runs between them. Both the Howen-tum men, Den, from the same ship, also kept up the honour of the crew, the three representatives making nearly the Shanghai half score of their own bats.Some very brilliant catches were made on both sides.So successful has this first venture been that an annual repetition of it is looked upon as one of the future's certainties.
Let us hope that our local team next year may give a better account of themselves.

TENNIS.

In tennis the Shanghai team, comprising Messrs. Heaton, Johnstone and Dr.
Marshall, were beaten by their adversaries in the exact scores we are unable to obtain.
But they were under a great disadvantage in losing the services of Mr. N. B. Rayney, who being unwell, was unable to take part in the tournament.

FOOTBALL.

Some of the members of the team, with footballing proclivities, arranged a game of Association with six on each side. The weather was unfavourable for play, considering the nature of the ground, and the result was four goals to nil against Slaghal.

THE CRICKET.

Next to the cricket match to rank in importance was the splendid gymbase organised by the officers of the 1st Chinese Regiment. This was said to be equal to many of the events seen in India, and every item of the programme went off enthusiastically and well.Shanghai was successful in winning one event, namely the 100 yards flat race, which was won by E. H. Lynch, his time being 12.2 sec.One interesting item was the polo match between four men mounted and eight dim-mounted, which, contrary to expectations, was won by the footmen by 8 to 1.The foot races for men of the Chinese Regiment were very comical, about forty starters at a time and each man trying to hold his companion back to get the advantage of a start.

DINNER ON THE 'EXCENTRIC.'

H. E. Admiral Seymour was present at nearly all the functions, and on the occasion when the visitors were entertained at dinner on the ship Centurion by Captain Jellicoe, the gallant captain, after the report, made a very cordial speech, to which Mr. Tyack, as captain of the team, replied.
Mr. E. H. Burrows proposed the "Navy," to which Admiral Seymour responded, and in doing so proposed "Shanghai," which he alluded to in most pleasing and eulogistic terms, and his toast was replied to by Mr.
Johnstone. It may be mentioned that in his remarks the Admiral hoped the visit of the Shanghai team to Weihaiwei would be come an annual function.

LITTLE SHIPS' SHOWER.

A "Little Ships' Shower" so far as the title on the M.S.S. programme defined it, was given on board H.M.S. Brix by the officers of the smaller men-of-war comprising the Phoenicia, Alacrity, Brisk, Fame, Hunter, Rattler, Whiting and Littel, who was a great success, and in which the visitors also took part. Admiral Seymour was also present.

CAUSES OF THE DEATH.

The defeat of the Shanghai team, although they could scarcely hope to beat the pick of seventeen ships comprising the fleet, is attributed to an effort to the ground. The wickettes were pitched on an old Chinese parade ground the surface of which was gravel, and the battoning was on matting. The fielding consequently proved very tiring. But the captain himself is convinced that if the naval team come to Shanghai it would again beat the local team.

THE CHINESE EXHIBITION.

The visitors are lost in the grandeur of the work of the officers of the 1st Chinese Regiment. It is difficult to realise how the work is being carried on and the surprising success the hard-working and zealous officers have met with. There are plenty of applicants, but only about one Chinaman out of twenty is accepted and thus an excellent selection is made. The officers are confident in the success of the scheme of making a well-drilled and reliable battalion from the material they have at their command.—Mercy.

HOW TO CURE A SPEAIN.

LAST fall I sprained my left hip while handing some heavy boxes. The doctor I called on said at first it was a slight strain and the doctor then said I had abdominal. It continued to grow worse and I could hardly get around to work.
I went to a drug store and the druggist recommended me to try Chinaman's Pain.
Chinaman's Pain is a mixture of opium bottle water and salicylic acid. It is a mixture of opium, Chinaman's Pain and a small amount of Salicylic Acid.
Watkins & Co., General Agents.At the Boston Branch of the Thoredbith Library, Mr. Pasmore Edwards made aspeech about newspapers. He went to the public library near his residence, he said, to read the news, but so popular were the daily journals that he had often to wait a considerable time before he could get a pimper at any one paper. It would be almost cheaper for Mr. Pasmore Edwards to buy a paper and read it quietly at home, says the Globe, a remark which might be noted in Hongkong.
